Our mission

We live in a world with strong educational inequalities, the Rich can go to the best schools and afford the best private teachers while others have limited choices for education. Some people are even afraid to have a child because they think they wouldn't be able to pay for education.

Maybe is making education cheaper and more accessible by developing automated teaching devices powered by Artificial Intelligence. Maybe's first product is a voice-controlled Chinese teaching speaker.

Our goal is to foster a new education era in which robots will teach humans and humans will have access to unlimited education.

The power to make 1.3 billion new friends
